

Sdilab was a project aimed at developing an experimental web site planned as a discussion and collab

A Laboratory that joined student, researchers, professors and graduates interested in the network economy studies focused on SMEs and that creates a link between companies Universities and research.