Stefano Micelli is Associate professor of innovation technology at the Ca' Foscari University, Dean of Venice International University and Director of the TeDIS Center. He coordinated many national and international projects in the fields of ICT, local economic development and competitiveness of firms and regions. For many years his research has been focusing on the impacts of information technologies on business competitiveness, internationalization of industrial districts and design.

click here to see Micelli's Publications

Stefano Micelli writes on the following blogs:

Cultura e cambiamento

Firstdraft

Videos:

Venezia Camp 2010

Creativity in action

E-creative: Stefano Micelli e Mary Ann DeVlieg

Open Source Software - MDM VEGA Venezia
Forum dell'Innovazione
Duke VIU summer school in Globalization