The aim of this project was to explore the scenario of distance learning and methodologies at an international level, focusing its attention on the ways New Technologies are used in education.

The project developded a web site and created a library of web tools that were available to professors and students as an open source network.